MAYSVILLE, THURSDAY, JUNE 4

From the National Intelligencer, May 25.
The Case of Mr. Vallandigham.

The New York Evening Post, after citing the statute enacted by the last Congress for the trial and punishment by the United States courts of all persons who in the loyal States give "aid or comfort" to the enemy, makes the following application of these statutes to the case of Mr. Vallandigham. We quote the remark of our able Republican contemporary because they do credit to its candor and its independence. At the same time it is just to add that the Post, in previously giving expression to similar views, has avowed the opinion that it speaks for three-fourths of its party, and we take pleasure in stating, as confirmatory of this view, that, with the exception of the New York Daily Times, we know of no Republican paper having any recognized pretensions to influence or intelligence which sustains the illegal proceedings of Gen. Burnside.

The remarks of the Post, after quoting the law which governs the case of Mr. Vallandigham, are as follows:

"This law, which appears to have been carefully drawn, proceeds upon the supposition that in a time of civil war there may be conditions and circumstances of society in which the President ought to suspend the writ of habeas corpus and order the arrest of traitors or mischievous persons. He is to act whenever in his judgment 'the public safety' may require such action. But the law, at the same time, obviously regards such occasions as transient or temporary, and directs a mode for the proper judicial trial of all who may have been irregularly seized and imprisoned. It says their names must be, 'as soon as practicable,' transmitted to the Judges of the Circuit and District Courts of the United States, for the presentation or indictment by the Grand Jury, and in the event that the Grand Jury adjourns without finding a bill against them the Judges are to discharge the accused. Nothing can be clearer or more explicit than this; nothing shows a more tender regard for the rights of the citizen, or a stronger determination on the part of the lawgiver to keep the military power subordinate to the civil power. While it admits the occasional necessity of arbitrary proceedings, it takes great care to prevent abuses.

Under the provisions of these statutes Vallandigham is a prisoner of state, and the Secretary of War is bound to report him as such to the circuit judge of the district in which his supposed offences were committed, to be regularly tried by the civil tribunal. There is no escape from the plain demand of the law, even if there were a desire to do so, which we cannot suppose, and we expect to hear in a few days that the culprit has been handed over to the legitimate authorities."

Three Sioux spies in Minnesota, were captured by a party of Winnebagoes on the 7th. The Winnebagoes cut out their hearts, chopped their bodies into small pieces and distributed them among the tribe, and had a grand war dance; and now have formally declared war against the Sioux.

The rise in gold yesterday in New York, was occasioned by an absurd report that the rebels had captured 20,000 of Grant's men. It was a stock jobbing scandal.

Our special advices from Murfreesboro confirm the previous reports of a considerable movement of Bragg's army. There are no rebels on Rosecrans' left wing. McMinnville has been abandoned, and a large region heretofore infested with mounted partisans, is deserted by the rebels. Nothing definite is known of the Federal movements, but there is no room to suppose that the Army of the Cumberland remains inactive.

Cin. Com. June 2nd.

ACTIVITY OF THE PRIVATEERS.—A correspondent of the New York Post, writing from Hamilton, Bermuda, April 30th, says: "The rebel steamer Robt. E. Lee arrived at the depot (St. George's) on the 16th, from Wilmington, with six hundred and twenty bales of cotton, turpentine, rosin, and tobacco. She brought as passenger, a Rev. Mr. Stuart, (or Steward) who is reported as holding a commission as Chaplain in the rebel army, and who has since departed for Liverpool, no doubt as bearer of dispatches to his confederate in treason, Mason. He preached while here in the Episcopal church at St. George."

"The rebel steamer Cornubia arrived at Bermuda on the 22nd, from Wilmington, with three hundred and seventy one bales of cotton. This is her fourth successful trip."

We have the news via Havana, Cuba, of the capture of Puebla, in Mexico, by the French; 18,000 prisoners were taken. This opens the road to the City of Mexico to the French.

Orig. Gen. BIRNEY, of Pennsylvania, has been commissioned a Major General, and ordered to take command of General Hooker's old fighting division, commanded during the late battle by Gen. Berry, who was killed.

The flag carried through the Chancellorville battle by the Second Massachusetts regiment was pierced by sixty-seven bullets.

A movement is on foot in Great Britain, it is said, for the fusion of the Congregationalists, Baptists, and Presbyterians into one denomination, and many leading men of the three denominations, among them Spurgeon, are in favor of the movement.

THE WAR NEWS.

The movements of Gen. Lee puzzle the commander of the Potomac. He is afraid that an advance is contemplated to the northward; the fact undoubtedly is, he is detaching troops to be sent to Johnston. It is denied that any of Hunter's troops have sent away. The General has written a letter to Jeff. Davis, threatening to retaliate, in any case negro soldiers are hung, or sold into slavery. The idea is a good one, but the style of the letter is rather argumentative for a military commander. We do not like such florid productions upon the part of a General. He should have been active, and captured enough prisoners to execute his threat effectually, and then given his adversary notice of his intentions.

The Washington dispatch to the Gazette of this morning says that "Col. Wm. Birney, of the Fourth New Jersey, Inspector for organizing negro troops, arrived Saturday night, to enter on his work. The fact of officer of his standing being detailed, indicates an intention to get into the business of raising negro troops pretty vigorously. It is not unlikely that Col. Birney will superintend the organization of these troops at Pittsburgh and Cincinnati."

The same correspondent says that Gen. Hunter has been removed from the department of the South. That is right. Since he assumed command after the removal of Fremont, till the present day, he has shown himself incompetent for high military place.

Gen. Rosecrans is active, but as yet no general movement has been made. There is no doubt but the Rebels have fallen back from his front.

Information was received last night at Murfreesboro to the effect that our forces are again in North Alabama. Colonel Cornyn has made another expedition from Corinth to Florence. At the latter place he met the Rebel Roddy, defeated him, captured 100 men, eight commissioned officers, 400 horses and mules, and 300 able-bodied negroes. He then marched northward, destroying foundries and mills and everything that could be of use to the enemy.

From Somerset we learn that there are no Rebels in front except from 2,000 to 3,000 cavalry. They can be easily disposed of as soon as our forces are ready to move.

The Chicago Times has a Vicksburg special, in which we find the following, under date of 23d ult.

On the right, Gen. Sherman has pushed Steele's division squarely to the foot of the parapets. Our men lay in ditches on the slope of the parapet, on the side of one of the principal forts. Unable to take it by storm, they determined not to retire.

The Federal and Rebel soldiers are not twenty-five feet apart. Both are powerless to inflict much harm. Each watches the other, and a dozen muskets are fired whenever a soldier exposes himself above the works on either side. Nearly the same condition of things exist in McPherson's front. His sharpshooters prevent the working of the enemy's pieces in one or two forts.

A charge was made yesterday morning on one of them, by Stephenson's brigade, and repulsed. Two companies of one regiment got inside; a few got out again, but most were captured. The forts are all filled with infantry. Our artillery has dismounted a few guns, and damaged works in some places, but they are still strong.

General McClelland was hard pressed on the left yesterday and sent for reinforcements. Quincy's division went to his assistance at four o'clock. The contest continued till seven. One of our flags was planted at the foot of the earthworks, on the outside of the Rebel forts, and was kept there several hours, but the forts were not taken. McClelland's loss is estimated at 1,000 killed and wounded, yesterday.

The fighting grows more desperate each day. The transports now bring supplies by water to within three miles of our right.

Gen. Joe Johnston is reported near Big Black River, in our rear, with reinforcements for the beleaguered. Grant can detail men enough from the operations here to keep Johnston in check.

This is not as late as some of our news, but many particulars are here given not before published. All accounts agree that Johnston can do nothing, as we are receiving reinforcements faster than he is.

The New York World and the Chicago Times.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE OHIO, CINCINNATI, O., JUNE 1, 1863.

General Order No. 54.]

I. The tendency of the opinions and articles habitually published in the newspaper known as the New York World being to cast reproach upon the Government, and to weaken its efforts to suppress the rebellion by creating distrust in its war policy, its circulation in time of war is calculated to exert a pernicious and treasonable influence, and is therefore prohibited in this Department.

II. Postmasters, news agents, and all others will govern themselves by this order, as any person detected in forwarding, selling, or in any way circulating the paper referred to, will be promptly arrested and held for trial.

III. On account of the repeated expression of disloyal and incendiary sentiments, the publication of the newspaper known as the Chicago Times is hereby suppressed.

IV. Brigadier General Jacob Ammen, commanding the District of Illinois, is charged with the execution of the third paragraph of this order.

Letter from General Hunter to Jeff. Davis.

New York, June 1.—The following letter from General Hunter to Jeff. Davis is presented in the Free South, dated May 3: HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH, HILTON HEAD, PORT ROYAL, April 23.

Jefferson Davis, Richmond, Va.

The United States flag must protect all its defenders, white, black or yellow. Several negroes in the employ of the Government in the Western Department have been cruelly murdered by your authorities, and others sold into slavery. Every outrage of this kind against the laws of humanity which may take place in this department, shall be followed by the immediate execution of the rebel of higher rank in my possession, man for man. These executions will certainly take place for every one murdered or sold into a slavery worse than death.

On your authorities will rest the responsibility of this barbarous policy, and you will be held responsible in the world to come for all the blood thus shed. In the month of August last, you declared all those engaged in arming the negroes to fight for their country to be felons, and directed the immediate execution of all such as should be captured. I have given you long enough to reflect on your folly. I now give you notice that unless this order is immediately revoked, I will at once cause the execution of every rebel officer and every rebel slaveholder in my possession.

The poor negro is fighting for his liberty in its truest sense; and Mr. Jefferson has beautifully said: "In such a war there is no attribute of the Almighty which will induce him to fight on the side of the oppressor."

You say you are fighting for liberty; liberty to keep 4,000,000 of your fellow-beings in ignorance and degradation; liberty to separate parents and children, husband and wife, brother and sister; liberty to steal the products of their labor, exalting with many a cruel lash and bitter tear; liberty to seduce their wives and daughters, and to sell your own children into bondage; liberty to kill these children with impunity, when the murder can not be proven by one of pure white blood; this is the kind of liberty—the liberty to do wrong which Satan, chief of the fallen angels, was contending for when he was cast into hell.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your most obedient servant,

D. HUNTER,
Major General Commanding.

Removal of Headquarters.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE OHIO, CINCINNATI, OHIO, May 30, 1863.

General Order No. 79.]

I. The Headquarters of this Department will, on the 2d proximo, be removed to Hickman Bridge, Kentucky.

II. All official communications from the District of Ohio will be forwarded to Brigadier General J. D. Cox, commanding; those from the District of Indiana, to Brigadier General M. S. Hascall, commanding; those from the District of Illinois, to Brigadier General J. Ammen, commanding.

These officers will forward them to the Branch Office of the Adjutant General's Department in Cincinnati, Ohio, under charge of Major N. H. McLean, A. G.

III. Official communications from the State of Michigan will be forwarded direct to the Cincinnati office; official communications from the District of Kentucky will be forwarded to Brigadier General J. T. Boyle, commanding.

IV. Proceedings of Court-martial will be forwarded to the Branch Office in Cincinnati, Ohio.

By command of Major General BURNSIDE. [Signed,] LEWIS RICHMOND, Assistant Adjutant General.

Official: W. P. ANDERSON, Assistant Adjutant General.

Latest from the Siege of Vicksburg.

CHICAGO, June 1.—A special dispatch to the Chicago Times dated headquarters in the field, near Vicksburg, May 23, says: But little has been effected during the past 36 hours. Over one hundred pieces of field artillery and several siege guns rained shot and shell on the enemy's works yesterday.

The mortar fleet also took position behind Do Soto Point, and bombarded the city during the entire day. On the right General Sherman has pushed Steele's division squarely to the foot of the parapets.

Our men lay in the ditches on the slope of the parapet on the side of one of the principal forts, but unable to take it by storm, and yet determined not to retire. The Federal and Rebel soldiers were not twenty-five feet apart, and both powerless to inflict much harm.

Each watches the other, and a dozen muskets are fired when a soldier exposes himself above the works on either side. Nearly the same condition of things exists in McPherson's front. His sharpshooters prevent the working of the enemy's pieces in one or two forts.

Letter of Gov. Seymour to the Albany Meeting.

ALBANY, May 17.

The following is the letter of Governor Seymour to the Vallandigham meeting last night:

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, May 16, 1863.

I cannot attend the meeting at the Capitol, this evening, but I wish to state my opinion in the regard to the arrest of Mr. Vallandigham. It is an act which has brought dishonor upon our country. It is full of danger to our persons and our homes. It bears upon its front a conscious violation of law and justice.

Acting upon the evidence of detailed informers, shrinking from the light of day, in the darkness of night, armed men violated the home of an American citizen and furiously bore him away to military trial, conducted without those safeguards known in the proceedings of our judicial tribunals. The transaction involved a series of offenses against our most sacred rights.

It interfered with the freedom of speech, it violated our rights to be secure in our homes, against unreasonable searches and seizures; it pronounced a sentence without trial, save one which was as well as wronged. The perpetrators now seek to impose punishment, not for an offense against law but for the disregard of an invalid order, put forth in the utter disregard of the principles of civil liberty.

If this proceeding is approved by the government, and sanctioned by the people, it is not merely a step toward revolution; it will not only lead to military despotism—it establishes military despotism. In this aspect it must be accepted, or in this aspect rejected. If it is upheld our liberties are overthrown; the safety of our persons; security of our property will hereafter depend upon the arbitrary will of such military rulers as may be placed over us, while our constitutional guarantees will be broken down.

Even now the Governors and courts of some of the great western States have sunk into insignificance before the despotic powers claimed and exercised by military men who have been sent into their borders. It is a fearful thing to increase the danger which now overhangs us by treating the law, the judiciary, and the State authorities with contempt.

The people of this country now wait with the deepest anxiety the decisions of the Administration upon these acts. Having given it a generous support in the conduct of the war, we pause to see what kind of government it is for which we are asked to pour out our blood and our treasures.

The action of the Administration will determine in the minds of more than one half of the people of the loyal States whether the war is waged to put down rebellion at the South, or to destroy free institutions at the North. We look for its decision with most solemn solicitude.

HORATIO SEYMOUR.

The resolutions adopted claim that the democrats have devoted, during the two years of civil war, and express a determination to devote their energies to the cause of the Union; denounce the assumption of military power in the arrest of Mr. Vallandigham, and I assert the right of free discussion. They say that in the election of Mr. Seymour the people condemned the system of arbitrary arrests, and call on the President to restore Mr. Vallandigham to liberty. They direct a copy of the resolutions to be sent to the President, with the assurance of the desire of the meeting to support the government in every constitutional and lawful measure to suppress the rebellion.

Arbitrary Arrests.—The Advice of the Louisville Journal.

The Louisville Journal, in commending a letter of Judge Parker, of Massachusetts, upon the Vallandigham case, says:

Judge Parker is right. "I earnestly hope, adds this eminent jurist and patriot, 'that the National Administration will be prompt to repudiate the act, and to forbid all arbitrary arrests hereafter in the Northern States. To fail to do so would go far to discourage the efforts now being made to strengthen the arm of Government in the suppression of the rebellion.' These are words of wisdom and of patriotism. They are the words of one whose loyalty is fervent and unsuspected. We entreat the President to heed them. And because they signify a mighty truth, and are supported by the bulk of the President's own party, as well as by the solid body of the conservative opposition, we can not doubt that he will heed them. It is impossible that the President can deliberately set at defiance the voice of the whole people thus unequivocally and impressively uttered in behalf of what he himself must own to be the right. There is not at present on the face of the globe a monarch who would even dream of defying such monitions as President Lincoln is now receiving in this grave matter from the free and loyal people whose Chief Magistrate he is. Let him at once respect these monitions, if he would serve and not freshly imperil his country, to say nothing of his own future renown."

Affairs at Vicksburg.

New York, June 1.—Memphis papers of the 28th state that the Bulletin confirms the statement that Grant invests Vicksburg. It also states that our forces have succeeded in taking a portion of the rebel works. The forts remaining to be taken are very formidable, and command the entire town. Several charges have been made upon them, but with little success. The rebels seem to think that their position is impregnable. The river batteries have been most silently silenced.

General Sherman is on the right, 2 miles from Haines Bluff; McClelland, one half mile from the Court house, in the center and McPherson at the lower end of Vicksburg.

The reports that Pemberton offered to surrender Vicksburg on terms, is confirmed. It is also believed that the reported arrival of Banks' forces at Warrenton is true.

JEALOUSY OF MILITARY POWER.—The Massachusetts Assembly, in 1793, in an address to the Governor, made use of the following language: "The use of the military power to enforce the execution of the laws, is in our opinion, inconsistent with the spirit of a free Constitution, and the very theory of Government is, that the body of the people, the populus comitatus, will always aid the magistrate in the execution of such laws as ought to be executed. The very supposition of an unwillingness of the people in general that a law should be executed, carries with it the strongest presumption that it is an unjust law, at least that it is unsalutary. It can not be their laws."

Speech of Hon. John J. Crittenden.

The late speech of the Hon. John J. Crittenden, at Lexington, Ky., has been extensively published and applauded in the Republican press. We wonder if they will endorse the following extract from it, giving the views of the venerable statesman upon the freedom of speech. He says:

"Neither on this nor any other occasion has it been my habit to make an outcry and clamor; but when usurpation of power are made dangerous, and when encroachments upon my liberty and the liberty of my constituents, and upon the Constitution, intended to guard the liberties of us all, are made, I would have every man have spirit enough to declare his opinions and offer his protests. Without this freedom of speech, there can be no lasting liberty; the Republic can not exist. If every man should close his lips, and not venture even a word against violated rights, who could maintain a free government? Nobody. A people who can not discuss the public measures of the nation, and apply the necessary rebuke to secure correction of wrongs, can not be a free people, and do not deserve to be. But it is not necessary that it be done with passion. You are a portion of the people of the United States, act in a manner becoming your high character. Sedition does not become it; clamor does not become it. Action at the proper time, and in the proper manner, according to legal and constitutional provision, is what we want, and what the world has a right to expect."

From the St. Louis Republican.

From the City of Vicksburg.

Vicksburg is the capital of Warren county, Mississippi, which county is bounded north-east by Yazoo County, east and south by the Big Black River, west by the Mississippi River, and north-west by Yazoo river. The country around Vicksburg is drained by the branches of the Big Black. The surface of the soil is rough and hilly on the east. Almost the entire area between the Yazoo River and Vicksburg is covered with close timber, chiefly of stunted size, mostly interwoven with luxuriant undergrowth, and interspersed with numerous bayous, creeks and swamps.

The city of Vicksburg is built upon a hill or bluff, the highest point of which is between two and three hundred feet above the Mississippi. The Walnut Hills, a little above Vicksburg, rise boldly with alternate swells and gullies to the height of nearly five hundred feet, and form one of the most striking views the traveler meets with on the Lower Mississippi. Below the city are the hills, which likewise present an imposing view. All the commanding points on the hills have been strongly fortified, both in front and in the rear of the town. Vicksburg contained a resident population before the war of between four and five thousand people. It has a court-house, five or six churches, three academies, a theater, three printing offices, and several public and private schools. In ordinary times an active business is done here in the preparation of lumber and building materials by saw-mills, shingle factories and brick yards.

In 1860 about one hundred thousand bales of cotton were shipped to New Orleans, the city being the depot of all the Yazoo country.

At the time that General Jackson's proceedings at New Orleans were brought up in Congress, the old hero, then at his home in Tennessee, wrote as follows:

"I would be the last man on earth to do any act which would invalidate the principle that THE MILITARY SHOULD ALWAYS BE SUBJECT TO THE CIVIL POWER!"

THE LIBERTY OF THE PRESS.—"Give me" said Mr. Sheridan—"but the liberty of the press, and I will give the minister a venal House of Peers—I will give him a corrupt and servile House of Commons—I will give him the full swing of the patronage of office—I will give him the whole host of ministerial influence—I will give him all the power that place can confer upon him to purchase submission; and yet, armed with the liberty of the press, I will go forth to meet him undismayed; I will attack the mighty fabric he has reared with that mightier engine; I will shake down from its high corruption; and lay it beneath the ruins of the abuses it was meant to shelter."

JUDGE LEAVITT'S OPINION.—We have watched with some interest the comments of the press, outside of our city, on Judge Leavitt's opinion adverse to granting a writ of habeas corpus on the application of Mr. Vallandigham. The general expression is, that the opinion is a disgrace not only to himself, but to the profession of which he is a member.—Enquirer.

OUR LOSS EIGHTEEN THOUSAND.—It is now stated that our loss under Hooker's disastrous leadership at Fredericksburg is 18,000. This is evidently nearer the truth, but certain revelations, which the administration has been unable to suppress, make it pretty certain that our total loss was really about 30,000! General Sedgwick's division lost 6,000 and Sickles' 4,874.—Hartford Times.

Capt. Joel A. Dewor, of the 43d Ohio, has been dishonorably discharged, with loss of pay and allowances, he having been proved guilty of selling a free negro servant, recently, at Memphis.

The flowers that breathe the sweetest perfume into our hearts, bloom upon the road with which providence ennobles us.

The celebrated race-horse Ethan Allen, has been purchased by Frank Baker, of San Francisco, for $16,000.

Gold, by hammering, may be rendered so thin that two hundred and eighty thousand leaves must be placed upon each other to produce the thickness of an inch.

CURE FOR A FELON.—As soon as the part begins to swell, get the Tincture of Lobelia, and wrap the part affected thick with a cloth; saturate it thoroughly with the tincture, and the felon is dead. An old physician says he has known this to cure in scores of cases, and that it never fails if applied in season.

CONTINUANCE OF SLAVERY.—Park Godwin, editor of the Evening Post, says that "if slavery is to continue in this country, he wants the Irish Catholics to take the place of the negroes, and let the more intelligent and more virtuous blacks be liberated."

Such an abominable sentiment is entirely worthy of the man who utters it—a man who raves like one in bedlam against the constitution of his country, and slanders every white man who is not a negro at heart.—Old Guard.

GOOD NEWS FOR THE PEOPLE!

PROMPTNESS MY MOTTO! SATISFACTION MY AIM!

GEO. W. TUDOR, MAYSVILLE,

Hunting in Africa—Sea Cows.
Heading from the Kaffirs that there were sea-cows in the Umfalis, I waited till the sun was setting low, and went in pursuit. How my heart beat at hearing the well-known blow just around a bend of the river, and, cautiously peering round saw three making up the stream! They were very shy, and showed no head. I took a round, and shot above them unperceived, and made an excellent shot at a very large bull; he only just showed his eye above the water at fifty yards, and I put a bullet in the very center. The next day I found my sea-cow on his back, in the middle of a large hole, about forty yards from land, with a dozen alligators round him. I bribed the Zulus and bulled Kaffirs to go in and fasten cords on him to tow him ashore, but in vain; so, after firing a couple of shots, and throwing stones to frighten the alligators, I swam in, made the cords fast to him, and made for the shore again as soon as possible, shooting forty Kaffirs at the alligators. The poor had been so badly scared by the alligators, that they came ashore as soon as they were used, and I was obliged to swim in again. It was not a very pleasant position to be rolling about on a sea-cow, with alligators all around one, and I did not at all relish it. Through bad management I had to go in four times. At last, however, after several failures, we got him to land.
The next day I brought up the head, which the alligators, alligators, and vultures had picked tolerably clean, and buried it near a kraal, in charge of an old Kaffir, salted the tongue and a tub full of meat, stretched some hammocks and whip lashed round the wagon, and in the afternoon started in pursuit of more, but without success.
DUEL WITH A HIPPOPOTAMUS.
We mustered a strong party of fifteen, including the captain of the kraal, and three fellows to carry beer. We took our blankets with us, and walked a long way without seeing anything. At last an old bull buffalo jumped up close to me, and I gave him a bullet behind the shoulder, which brought him on his knees, but soon recovered himself and went off. I sent a second ball after him, to no purpose. After on, I saw a large sea-bull lying asleep close inland behind some reeds, and proceeded to crawl in to him, and just as I showed myself half way to my waist in water, to my surprise, instead of endeavoring to make his escape, he stopped for a second about twenty yards off and I gave him a pull under the ear, which made him spin around and around like a top. I fired two more bullets into his body without effect, and began to feel we were to lose him altogether, as he seemed recovering, and was gradually getting farther away into deep water and giving very poor chances of a shot.
The sun was shining so directly him, that I could not see to shoot a bit; the footing was slippery and I was half way up to my middle in mud and water, when I got a last chance, and put the ball exactly between the ear and eye, and killed him.
The sun was fast setting; the Kaffirs got him nearly ashore, and we lighted three huge fires with a cap and powder on the heels of my gun, giving it a smart blow with a stone, and fed on him, but he was horribly tough. The night was awfully foggy, and the dew heavy; and, when morning came, I had every symptom of fever. Notwithstanding, I was obliged to walk twenty-five miles home, with scarcely any shade on the road. Many a vow I made during the day, never to return to the country.
SHOOTING A RHINOCEROS.
We were plowing our way through long, heavy, wet grass and scrubby thorn trees when an old rhinoceros came up slowly from behind a thorn tree, and after giving me a good stare, advanced slowly toward me. I lost no time in getting the gun out of the cover, and gave her a ball in the chest. She turned round in double quick time, putting like a porpoise. I followed, but a Kaffir, who prevented me, from getting very near, so she got away. On climbing the top of the hill I saw two more, and sent my Kaffir below them, thinking they were sure to make down hill. I could not get near them; but just as they were about to make off, I shot one in the shoulder, but rather too low, and away they went. The dogs turned once and brought him back not fifteen yards from me at full trot, his head up and his tail curled over his back, stepping out in splendid style. He looked very much inclined to charge me; but a bullet behind his shoulders, which dropped him on his knees, made him alter his course. I felt convinced that I had killed him, and followed him. At last we saw the brute lying down in so natural a position that I never thought he could be dead, and shot him behind the shoulder; but he had laid down for the last time some hours before. It was the one I had shot first. After cutting out his horns, some jimbobs and his tongue, and banging them up in a tree, we went off for water, and had not gone far when I saw another, about twenty yards off, looking at me, uneasy, and apparently trying to screen herself from being seen. I waited some time till she turned, and then shot her behind the shoulder, when she immediately came at me; but a ball in the center of her forehead stopped her progress, and she fell dead not ten yards from me; a lucky shot, as I hardly knew where to fire, and I had not an instant to lose. I must have been impaled on her very long horn, if I had not been fortunate enough to kill her. She had a very young calf, which the dogs were fighting with, and she squealing most lustily. I got them off, and wanted very much to take him to the wagon, and sent off my Kaffirs forthwith for half a dozen fellows to carry him. He was like a well-bred Chinese pig, pink-eared, very fine skinned and fat, and shone as if had just been polished with blacklead, but while John and myself had gone to make something to carry him in, along between two poles, the hyenas had killed him, preferring him to the mother—Baldwin's Late Work.
